

I believe that concentration in the media will limit the variety of opinion, news reporting, and entertainment available. The large conglomerates which result will commercialize these services, and cross plug what they have to offer, preventing the independent broadcaster from competing. Once concentration has occurred there is no easy way to undo this.

I think democracy is endangered by this trend, and I oppose eliminating the restrictions on media concentration in this country.

Sincerely ,

Eric Adler